The Department of the Interior (Department) has used a variety of different formats for acknowledgment decisions throughout the years. The Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) within the Department may have prepared one, two or three technical reports for a proposed finding, depending on the circumstances of a given case. The Department may or may not have included a technical report for a final determination. In some instances, the Department did not receive any comment or comment was so limited that the final determination response was contained within the Federal Register notice of the decision rather than being a separate report. The accompanying file includes all technical reports, evaluations of the evidence, and Federal Register notices that the BIA prepared for the Department in a given case.
